Can you read?

Grassland is a dry place with a lot of grass. Some grassland animals are small, like prairie dogs (草原土拨鼠). They hide in holes in the ground. Large grassland animals have other ways to stay safe. Giraffes' long necks help them see danger.

A forest is a place with lots of trees. Big and small animals live in forests. Some animals find food in the trees. Some animals, like woodpeckers (啄木鸟), make holes in the trees for a home.

A pond is a small body of water. It has little or no salt in it. Fish and plants live in a pond. Many animals find food and build homes in a pond, like beavers (海狸).

An ocean is a large body of salt water. It is very deep. Lots of mammals (哺乳动物), fish, and plants live in the ocean. For example, whales, seals, and sea lions live in the ocean.
